THE WEATHER.

The forecast is for generally fair to night and Thursday.

BANK NOTE SWINDLE.

SECRET SERVICE OFFICERS SEIZE THE PLATE AND NOTES OF THE OLD STATE BANK OF NEW BRUNSWICK.

New York, August 21.—(Claremont secret service officers tonight visited New Brunswick, N. J., and obtained possession of the plates and nearly $200,000 face value of the notes of the old state bank of New Brunswick. The notes are not printed from the old plates, but were genuinely printed thirty years or more ago by the bank itself, but were never signed by the president and cashier. Lax methods in handling the affairs of the bank 28 years ago seem to have been responsible for the big swindle in other states with the bank notes as a basis.

A SHOVEL COMBINE.

FIVE MAMMOTH COMPANIES HAVE EFFECTED A CONSOLIDATION.

St. Louis, August 21.—Julius C. Reiger, president of the St. Louis Shovel company, contrasts the reported consolidation of five of the largest shovel manufacturing concerns in the country with a capital stock of $5,000,000. The new company will be called the Ames Tool and Shovel company. It is made up of the following companies:

Olivier, Ames and Sons' Corporation of North Easton, Mass.; Wright Shovel company of Anderson, Ind.; H. M. Meyers company of Beaver Falls, Pa.; T. Howard and Sons' company of Philadelphia, the St. Louis Shovel company.

POLICE COURT.

Robbery Case Heard and Defendant Recognized by the Court.

House Breaker's Trial, This Afternoon—Other Cases Before Judge Sanders.

Abraham Silverstein, a Polish Jew shoemaker on lower Court street, was the prosecuting witness this morning in a case against John Smith and Will Petty, colored, whom he charges with having several weeks ago assaulted him in his shop with the intention to rob him. Smith has not been caught, but Silverstein a few days ago saw Petty on the street, and pointed him out to Officer Hart as one of the would-be robbers, and he was arrested.

Silverstein cannot talk English, but seems to understand it pretty well. The Antwerp was sworn in interpreter by Judge Sanders, who admonished the reporters present to not miss any of the testimony. It was hard to determine exactly what kind of language they were using, but sometimes it appeared to be English, and at other times something far worse.

Silverstein claims that one of the men came in one day and left a knife. He returned a short time afterwards and could not find it. This started trouble, and Petty went to the door, and looking out, said to him was around and to get a brick. Now Abraham, alarmed Silverstein, did not know the uses of a brick in that particular locality, but he was determined soon to know. Petty held the door while Smith beat him. He fought some little, but not enough to prevent the negroes from beating him about the head. He heard one of them tell the other to take his watch and money, whereupon he began calling police, and Mr. Frank Bennett, the grocer, rushed to his assistance and found him trying to hold one of the negroes until the police arrived.

Petty claimed they all had a fight over a knife which Smith had left at the shoe shop about a week before. Petty has been in the penitentiary three times. He was recognized to appear before the grand jury, and released on his own recognizance.

J. H. McCabe was fined $1 and costs for a plain drunk.

Henry Schmitt was fined $1 and costs for using insulting language towards Officer Tom Orr.

Pete Lee, for a plain drunk, got a dollar and costs.

Alex Hootchew, charged with going over Island Creek bridge at a faster gait than a walk, was fined $5 and costs, although he contended that it was not faster than he could walk.

The case against Emerson Woods, Arthur Woods, Littlefield and John Herrington, all colored, charged with breaking into the establishment of George O. Hart and Son and stealing razors, pistols, and knives, was tried before Judge Sanders this afternoon and the warrants filed away. The negroes were released.

RELATIVES ARE SUMMONED

All Quiet Today About St. Charles, Kentucky—Covington Pool Rooms Close.

FRANCE AND TURKEY ARE MAD

MRS. BECKHAM VERY ILL.

Frankfort, August 21.—Mrs. Beckham's condition is very serious, and Dr. Hume has been with her all the morning. She has not rallied as promptly as hoped for, and at noon, Dr. Hume posted the following bulletin:

"Mrs. Beckham is very low. Relatives have been summoned. The worst is feared."

After a consultation, Louisville and Frankfort physicians stated that Mrs. Beckham's condition is as grave as can be.

QUIET AT ST. CHARLES.

Madisonville, August 21.—All is quiet about St. Charles today, at the scene of yesterday's mining trouble. Several union miners were arrested, and no further trouble is feared. The trouble occurred yesterday when a body of men, supposed to be union miners, fired near St. Charles upon a sheriff's posse. The officers had warrants for several of the union men for various misdemeanors, and had arrested Organizer Watkins and found a pistol on him. It was while on their way to the depot that the officers were fired upon. Two deputies were struck in the leg, and several others slightly wounded, but it is not known if any of the attacking party were struck when the officers returned the fire.

POOL ROOMS CLOSE.

Covington, August 21.—All the local pool rooms, after a long fight, voluntarily closed today, and are moving to Newport.

KEY MAKE FACES.

Constantinople, August 21.—The French Ambassador has notified the Sultan that diplomatic relations between France and Turkey are broken off. The Sultan is alleged to have broken his promise as to French claims.

SIX DROWNED.

Cleveland, Ohio, August 21.—Six men were drowned in the new water works tunnel by an explosion which wrecked the tunnel, letting in the water.

SALEMAN IS BANKRUPT.

Hopkinsville, August 21.—Franklin's Royal Saloon, the finest in Hopkinsville, has filed a petition in bankruptcy.

HIS COMPOSITIONS.

PROF. MILLER CUNNINGHAM TO FEATURE THEM IN CONCERT.

Mr. H. Miller Cunningham, the local composer and trombone soloist, will shortly give a band recital of his compositions. He has about ten late marches, among which is one featuring the bass drum and another featuring the trombone, and several late overtures and two sets of waltzes.

Mr. Cunningham is a member of Dean's band and is one of the strongest players in the city. He has had several of his marches published and has made quite a name for himself in the music line.

From one to three numbers of all the concerts given by the band this season, were of his composition and they all made a hit. A well known band man, who was traveling south to join a minstrel band, said that his likeliest one, which is a favorite here, was one of the best he had ever heard and wanted a copy to use on the road by his own band.

The concert will probably be given on the streets and will be made up of Mr. Cunningham's selections only.

NOTHING DOING YET.

THE STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE HAS NOT SETTLED TROUBLE IN M'CRACKEN.

The state central democratic committee has not yet settled the dispute as to who will be declared chairman and secretary of the McCracken county committee. Secretary Eaton while in Allen county a few days ago, had a talk with some of the members and received assurance that he and Chairman Emery would be sustained.

It is thought that a settlement will be made about September 1.

SLIPPED A COG

The Hay Fever Victims Hope That This is an Off Year.

A DELAY OF THE ATTACK

It is Thought That the Drouth Prevented the Annual Attack of the Disease.

THE CAUSE IS UNCERTAIN

Hay fever has not made its appearance this year in Paducah and no cause is assigned for it unless it be the drouth so changed atmospheric conditions that the never failing malady was driven away.

All over the country victims of hay fever are numerous, and every year their affliction returns with no signs of abatement. The unfortunate have even gone so far as to found and maintain a regular society of hay fever sufferers, and hold regular annual conventions.

But evidently, says the Louisville Times, something has happened to the hay-fever power house. Ordinarily the malady is in full blast by August 8, a large number of cases coming on regularly by August 15 each year.

But with most of the victims there has been a strange delay this season. The fact has been observed in all portions of the country where the recent serious drouth prevailed. The only theory upon which the drouth may be connected with the delay in the hay fever visitation is that the degree of dryness killed off much of the growth whose pollen is supposed to produce hay fever. The pollen theory is by no means universally accepted by physicians, however.

Most hay fever sufferers are accustomed to an attack on a certain day of each year. Medical records show cases where the attack is made not only on corresponding days each year, but on exact hours of these days.

While some few victims have experienced their attacks as usual this season, the majority of the "hay fever colony" are still waiting—though not with feelings of pleasant anticipation for the annual enemy. Many of them have got so far beyond the accustomed day of attack that they are hopeful of being skipped this year.

The anomalous conditions noted are attracting the attention of the eastern specialists as well as those in the hay fever centers of the west. On this subject, the New York World contains the following editorial:

"The annual hay fever season is on, and from the west comes a curious report touching the source of this malady, which is still one of the riddles of medical science."

"From Kansas, South Dakota, Iowa, and Missouri, where the heat and drouth were severely felt, hundreds of the hay fever sufferers of former years are reported to be this year unafflicted. The Physicians of St. Paul, Minn., which is a city of refuge for southwestern hay fever patients, report a great falling off in the number of them from the districts affected by the long season of withering heat. And the deduction they are inclined to draw is that wherever the drouth was severe enough to destroy the ragweed and goldenrod before they could reach maturity and scatter their pollen on the air the supply of hay fever was, so to speak, turned off at the meter."

"This is an old theory of the origin of this tormenting disease of the nose and respiratory organs. The fact that tells most strongly against it is that thousands of people who live all through July and August in cities, far from the green and yellow scenes where the ragweed and the goldenrod grow, nevertheless sneeze and wheeze and grow weary on the rack of hay fever. These reports from the drouth west are nevertheless worthy of medical investigation."

TWO HURT.

ONE MAN SERIOUSLY HURT AT THE RHODES-BURFORD.

Ed Sellers, an employee of the Rhodes-Burford company, fell from a ladder this morning and was badly hurt. His injuries seem to have affected his spine, and he may not recover. He lives at Fourth and Tennessee.

John Bradley, who lives at Fifth and Norton streets, and is employed at J. L. Kilgore's, received a hard fall this morning and his back was badly injured. He will probably be laid up several days.

MORE BODIES.

Remains of Mr. Watts Davis and Little Ira Hogan Found—Mr. Hogan Located.

Diver Patrick Is Unable to Work in the Cabin—The Snagboat Woodruff to Work on the Wreck.

It is probable that by night most of the bodies of those lost in the City of Toledo will have been recovered, except those that went to the bottom and have probably before now floated off.

The big snagboat Woodruff received authority this afternoon from the government to go on and wreck the Toledo, and left for the scene, and the Brook fill, commanded by Mr. Abram Well, also took a crowd up to watch operations. Mr. Well has been exceedingly kind to all in the use of the yacht, and has done splendid work with it.

Quite a crowd went up, despite the rain, and expect to be back before 6 o'clock.

When a Sun reporter visited the wreck yesterday afternoon the crowd had dwindled down somewhat, but about one hundred spectators were on the diver's barge awaiting the result of diver Patrick's work. The first dive was made about 3:30 o'clock, and after several minutes under the water Mr. Patrick returned to the surface with the body of the little Hogan child.

He returned to the cabin again immediately after the body had been passed up to the deck of the barge, but could do nothing until the ladder had been removed toward the bow of the boat.

The big U.S. snag boat E. A. Woodruff passed down to Mr. Patrick was first going under, and a signal from the Monie Bauer was blown to show the big boat down, as the waves are detrimental to a successful dive. The pilot mistook the signal for help, and rounded up with the intention of making a landing. When she had drawn near enough to signal by shouts, the crew were informed of the meaning of the signals. The crew knew nothing of the disaster, and offered help, which was declined.

It seems that few people along the river had heard of the wreck and the crew and officers were surprised, to say the least, in learning of the disaster. From Diver Patrick's description of the condition of the boat's interior, all the hay will have to be taken from the boat, as the bodies are probably huddled in by the hay, those that are not are floating on the top of the cabin are, very hard to get to.

When the boat first turned over the cabin floated on the surface but early in the morning the boat settled down and the stacks are now at an angle of about forty degrees. Had the water been a little deeper the boat would have been turned completely bottom side up. As it is the stacks are buried in the mud and make an anchorage for the vessel.

When the body of Miss Graham was found she was near the cabin door and it is said had her hand on the door knob. The bodies will all be well filled with water by today and will begin to float, if they have not already begun to do so, and when the freight is removed the work will progress more rapidly.

Mr. Patrick said that it is one of the hardest places to work that he has ever been in and during yesterday's labor was forced to change his ladder to several different parts of the boat. All the bodies seem to be found as the bow of the vessel is pointed directly down stream everything loose will be floated to the forward part of the cabin. All the debris and floating freight has therefore been floated to the forward end of the cabin making it a hard matter for the diver to get to the bodies.

Many persons expressed much surprise when they saw the depth and breadth of the hull of the Toledo. Apparently, to the untrained eye, the hull is no more than two or three feet but it is about five feet deep and in the plank are numerous plugged knot holes and long ridges where the boat had struck a snag or grated on a rocky bottom. The machinery is all sound and none has broken loose from the deck. The boat is considered a total wreck but it is possible that the stacks saved the cabin by acting as a prop and keeping the boat from settling so solidly on the bottom.

When the bodies are all recovered it is probable that the boat will be raised which would be an easy matter with the E. A. Woodruff here. There were many persons who wanted to see the wreck so badly yesterday that they paid as high as three dollars to be pulled to the scene in a skiff. Many visited the wreck in this manner and the skiff men had a profitable day.

The water being muddy and the position of the boat made the work of the diver slow.

Besides the bodies recovered yesterday the grip of Mr. C. E. Slayden was recovered and also another grip along with the boats freight book and a basket of peaches.

During the afternoon several small boats came up to the wreck bringing many passengers to view the wreck but the barge was clear by nightfall with the exception of several persons who had come up in skiffs. The Monie Bauer arrived at Paducah shortly after dark bringing Mr. Patrick and his crew.

Mr. Lou (W. A.) Hogan was heard from this morning and will arrive here tonight. He was at Campbell, Mo.

The bodies of Misses Lizzie Graham and Tricie Grimes were taken to Grahamville this morning for burial. Diver Patrick continued his work this morning but was unable to do anything on account of the condition of the boat.

The boat has not settled firmly on the bottom and the under side of the cabin is broken up badly. The sides have been pushed in and forced the contents of the cabin into such a position that it is an impossibility to gain entrance.

The upper side of the cabin had to be chopped to pieces before the diver could enter and the hay, wheat and other freight has swelled and completely blocked all avenues to the forward end of the cabin, where the bodies are supposed to be.

Mr. Patrick decided that he could do nothing more this morning unless the position of the boat was changed and the Brook fill then came to the city with Captain Bauer on board to confer with the captain of the E. A. Woodruff in regard to securing the services of the Woodruff in raising the boat.

A telegram was sent to headquarters to gain permission to do the work.

It is said by some that the disaster was the result of a combination of circumstances and that no one was to blame for it. The pilot did the most sensible thing that he could, made for shore when the wind seemed to be getting the better of him, and the engineer did all he could until the water came up to his waist when he naturally made for his wife and child. It is said that the principal reason the boat was turned over was that the hay with which it was loaded was piled so high that a sudden lurch of the boat started the hay to sliding, and it turned the craft completely over before she could turn back.

The Metropolitan Herald this gives the experience of the engineer's wife and son, who live there:

"I was sitting in the cabin talking to the other ladies," said Mrs. Hayden, "when we noticed that a storm was coming. The outside door of my stateroom would not stay closed, and as the wind was blowing in very heavily I got up and went into the room to close it. The wind held it open with such force that I could hardly get it closed and when I did it blew open again I caught it with both hands and was going to close it again when I discovered the boat was going over. I saw the porter climb over the lanter rail of the guard and I followed. We were on the side of the boat against which the wind was blowing and as she went over we climbed down toward the lower deck. By the time the cabin was under water we had reached the side of the hull which was sticking above the water and just then Mr. Hayden came out of the engine room. Several of the other men had swam around to the hull and were climbing up on it. They caught me and pulled me out of the water to a place of safety. The yawl was then gotten out and the remaining members of the crew rowed to shore with us. Then we were taken to the home of a Kentucky farmer and shown every kindness possible until a boat from Paducah arrived for us a while before midnight."

Willie Hayden, son of engineer, had perhaps the narrowest escape of any of the rescued ones. He says that when the boat began to go over and he saw his mamma run out the door he started to follow her. The water by that time was filling the cabin and a chair or sofa or some piece of furniture floated under him and lifted him up to a hole of some sort in the cabin. When he felt that he began to climb through to get out and his foot caught. The water was rapidly closing about his head when Captain Peck saw him and went to his assistance, pulling him out to a place of safety. The remains of Mr. Watts Davis

MAYOR'S REPLY

Sends a Telegram of Thanks to Chief Engineer Harahan.

PEOPLE ARE GRATEFUL

Because the Illinois Central is to Rebuild Here—Work Begins as Soon as Possible.

RAILROAD NOTES OF INTEREST

Mayor James M. Lang, who yesterday received from Supt. H. U. Wallace a telegram announcing that Chief Engineer Harahan had asked that Mayor Lang be notified that the planing mill of the shops was to be rebuilt here at once, this morning sent the following telegram to Engineer Harahan, which speaks for itself and reflects the sentiments of all the people of Paducah:

Paducah, Ky., August 21, 1901. W. J. HARAHAN, Chief Engineer I. C. R. Co., Chicago, Ill.

Message through Mr. Wallace received. Our people are greatly pleased. For them I express our gratefulness to you. We have always loved the Illinois Central's management, and this latest favor has intensified our affection for its chief engineer.

JAS. M. LANG, Mayor.

The pay car went up the Louisville division this morning after paying off here yesterday.

Switch engine No. 199 is out of the shops again. She was somewhat damaged by leaving the track on the river front till Monday.

William Renshaw, superintendent of machinery of the I. C. and assistant Messrs. W. H. V. Rosing and Joseph Baker, arrived in the city yesterday morning and left yesterday afternoon at 6:15 o'clock for Chicago. They were on a regular inspection tour.

Mr. John Connel, of the local train master service, has gone to Louisville. He has resigned his position here, as before stated, and will probably go on the Fulton division as time keeper.

About all the debris has been cleared away from the site of the burned planing mill and as stated in yesterday's Sun the work of reconstruction will begin at once.

All the cars of trash now on the tracks inside the burned walls will be taken out and the trash burned. The engineers and carpenters will be here in a few days to begin the work. The plans for the new building have not yet been received here but the structure will be much larger and supplied with the latest improved machinery. It will be one of the most complete planing mills, pattern shop, and coach department on the system.

Engineer Hob McCarthy is today breaking engine No. 210 for passenger service. The engine was recently taken out of the shops after a thorough overhauling.

Mr. William Limkey, of Louisville, has accepted a position under engine foreman J. S. Taylor, as switchman, and has moved his family here, corner Eleventh and Madison street.

Mr. W. H. Carney, foreman of switch engine No. 199 has returned from Princeton and today resumed his duties. His engine was in charge of Mr. John Brantley during his absence.

Master Mechanic J. J. Neudorfer, of the Water Valley shops was in the city yesterday afternoon on business. He returned home last night.

Mr. Frank Kenna, of the yardmaster's office, went to Terve flange today at noon to visit relatives. He will be absent from the city about ten days.

HABEAS CORPUS

An Unusual Case Comes Up Before Judge Husbands.

WARD WAS HELD

The Court Took the Position That the Capias Was Sufficient to Hold Him.

THE FIRST CASE ON RECORD

The writ of habeas corpus sued out by Attorneys T. E. Moss and James Campbell to release Ed Ward, the ex-saloon keeper, from jail, is a very unusual case. It is said that Ward's extradition on a judgment for misdemeanor was unprecedented in this state, and the decision is of great importance.

Ward formerly kept a saloon on Washington street near Eighth, and was indicted for keeping a disorderly house. When the case went to trial he was fined $500 and before the court officers knew it he had skipped out, and was heard of no more until Commonwealth's Attorney Bradshaw located him in Memphis, where he was in business.

He secured a requisition on the judgment against him here, and Ward was arrested and brought here by Officer J. R. Gray.

Monday he spent at the county jail, and yesterday his attorneys took out a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Husbands, and it came up at 2 o'clock.

Attorney Bradshaw argued his side yesterday and Attorney Moss this morning. The question was whether a person could be extradited on a judgment or not.

Four speeches were made in the case, two by Attorney Bradshaw, and one each by Major Moss and Judge Campbell.

The court took the position that after Ward was arrested and brought to Paducah from Tennessee, a capias was issued on the $500 fine assessed against him here, and on this he was committed to jail.

These facts were shown, and while the question of extradition on a fine for misdemeanor was a question that came before the court for the first time in its history, and as some of the attorneys say, the first time in the history of any court, Judge Husbands decided that it was not for the court to say whether the requisition was legal or not, or to consider that question at all; that as the prisoner was committed to jail on a capias pro fine, that was sufficient to keep him there, no matter how he came to be in the state. So the extradition question was ruled out, and Ward was remanded to jail, where he will remain unless some of his friends pay him out.

A question naturally arises what would have been done with Ward had the court released him? He could hardly have gotten out of the state, as there is no law that would enable the court to more than release him, it being impossible to require officers to hold off until he left the state. The case, however, was the first of its kind that ever came up here, and created no little interest among the lawyers.

IN JUDGE EMERY'S COURT.

The only case before Judge Emery today was the case of Ella Overstreet against August Brant on $75 for farm rent. The case was tried before a jury but had not been heard this morning.

Senator McLanin, of South Carolina, seems to be making good headway in his canvass, and attracts large crowds wherever he speaks. His adversary, Senator Tillman, whose recent speech advocating lynching brought censure from every quarter, seems to be losing ground, and even the papers of his own state are repudiating him as a representative of the sentiment of South Carolina. Senator Tillman's latest move was to threaten the cotton manufacturers, saying that if they attempted to control the vote of the operatives, the next legislature would soon bring them to terms. It is claimed that this threat will act as a boomerang, as the cotton industry is too large to be intimidated, and cannot be frightened by threats of political vengeance. The legislature has shown itself friendly towards the growing industry, and will not adopt radical measures to cripple it.

Mr. Peter Arlund, the "promoter," who promoted the Paducah Iron furnace, is a very indignant man at Louisville because Booker Reed sold the Bloomfield and Shelbyville road to the L. and N. Mr. Arlund has a scheme to build a railroad by buying the lives of the projectors insured, and secured an option on the Bloomfield road, which expired August 13. He had not produced on that date, and on the 19th the road was sold to the L. and N. It is true that Mr. Reed received from the L. and N. $150,000 when he was to get but $125,000 from Mr. Arlund, but then, Booker, you should have let Peter have the road, for Peter is a promoter and the road, from reports, needs promoting. Mr. Arlund, deeply dejected from disappointment, said he "would sue," but his attorney corrected him by announcing that "there would probably be litigation." "No doing there will. There was litigation after Mr. Arlund got through promoting the Paducah Iron furnace."

The city is contemplating the establishment of a new park, and the council has appointed a committee to investigate the purchase of suitable property. This is a wise move. It is to be hoped that if a new park is established, it will be as beautiful and well kept as Yaller park—that oasis in the desert, with its babbling, pattering fountains, exquisitely wrought flower beds with fragrant beauties and rare plants; green, luxuriant grass exempt from the town oom, with scores of comfortable benches for the use of the public, and other attractions too numerous to mention.

The Board of Education acted sensibly in rejecting the bids asked for improvements to several school buildings. The cost of specifications has already been about fifty dollars, which was penitently wasted. The members of the board should have known that it was impossible to provide for the improvements this year, and been spared the trouble and expense to which they have been placed. The bid for the heating of the new school building alone was over $4,000, and there was not a single bid for all three jobs combined, that was less than $7,000. A vote was taken on the proposition to heat the new building and only three voted for it.

It is reported that the cause of the drought has been ascertained. It was to ward off the annual attack of hay fever that always showed up with commendable regularity about the middle of August. Victims of this unpleasant malady report that they have for the first time in years had no sign of an attack. Doctors are now trying to explain the whys and wherefores of it.

They are always having things in Graves county. The other day they had a wind storm near Farmington that did most everything from plow fields and shook roasting ears on the stalk, to stave chickens from the roost. Fortunately no one was hurt.

Will some one please inform the committee appointed by the council, that an anxious public is awaiting the information whether or not one of the sanitary officer neglected his duty?

The steamer that collided with an iceberg enjoyed a privilege that many people longed for in vain for several weeks a short time ago.

A SEVERE STORM

VISITS THE FARMINGTON SECTION DOING MUCH DAMAGE.

Farmington, Ky., August 31.—A cyclone struck this part of the county Monday during a great deal of damage. It passed over Mr. Sanders' house without doing any damage more than stripping his yard of shrubbery. From there it took a due northwest course striking into Mr. Sanders' pasture where it plowed out a place in the hard ground one hundred yards long and from three to ten feet wide and from three to ten inches deep. It passed on to Bascom Howard's farm and laid everything in its path, shaking roasting ears as deftly as any cook preparing them for dinner. It then crossed to Mr. Caldwell's farm, doing damage to everything that came in its way. It then passed on to Mrs. Ad Sheridan's farm and completely demolished her stables, corn crib, wagon and farming implements. Then it struck her residence, taking out both sides of one room, tearing all the window lights out of the building, raised the roof on all the dwellings. It then struck her meat and chicken houses and destroyed them completely. Mrs. Sheridan and her three children and Miss Doole Tood, who was spending the night there, were aroused by flying glass and debris from the building. One of Mrs. Sheridan's little girls was caught under a wardrobe and sustained slight injuries. Miss Tood sustained slight wounds from flying glass. Mrs. Sheridan is out of doors.

It then passed into the farm of R. S. Savage, tearing over haystacks and demolishing crops; thence to the farms of Rogers and Markham Ligon, taking off the north end and part of the roof of the latter's stock building.

AN AUTOMOBILE.

HACK APPEARS IN THE ROLE OF ONE YESTERDAY.

One of Palmer, Wilkerson and Kirby's hacks was standing in front of the St. Nicholas hotel yesterday when the single horse attached to it took fright and ran away. The driver, who was inside, ran out just in time to get left. The horse ploughed up the street and came up and passed a street car.

Presently the horse broke loose and left the hack. The vehicle was left to stop, however, and quickly became an automobile. It ran ahead of the car from the moment, according to Officer Charles Hart, and actually crossed the track in front of it, and then turned partially around, and spectators fully expected to see it go back the way it came.

The horse was captured further up the street and the hack was not greatly damaged.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreadful disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. I. C. TRANSATLANTIC LINE.

London, August 31.—Arrangements have been completed for the establishment of a direct line of steamers between New Orleans and Rotterdam under the joint management of the Illinois Central railway and the Radcliffe Steamship line of Cardiff.

Simultaneously the sailings of the Leyland West India Line from New Orleans to London will be resumed after long suspension, due to the fact that the British government chartered the boats of the company as transports in connection with the Boer war.

J. T. Harahan, vice president of the I. C., said today, "Increased shipping facilities to New Orleans will greatly benefit the shippers of Central and Southern Illinois and also Chicago, where most of this business is actually transacted. Both lines furnish excellent boats, sailing three times a month and assured of large cargoes of grain, salted meats, cotton and lumber. The Illinois Central is constantly expending large sums on dock improvements and New Orleans is steadily gaining a larger share of Chicago's export shipments."

Mr. Harahan finds the English railway officials keenly interested in the operations of the American lines. The superintendents of machinery of two of the largest north of England railroads are about to sail for the United States to study the equipment of the American machine shops. English railway officials freely admit the necessity for improving their operating methods with a view to the reduction of expenses in which respect they are far behind America.

Observations ...at Random

The tendency to form clubs is one of the vital phenomena of our civilization, says an exchange. Men and women nowadays organize themselves into associations for every imaginable purpose. The growth of "trusts" is only a larger application of the same principle. Thus far we have had no "medical trust," and we make bold to express the hope that we never shall have one. But, if reports are true, our patients are beginning to organize such as those with "hay fever," etc.

There has been formed, according to rumor, a tabetic association. It is not to be an incoordinate body, but well organized, and is to offer a prize of $10,000 for a sure cure for locomotor ataxia. In the present state of pathology we fear that the offer is a safe one, but we sympathize heartily with the new club, and can even see ground for believing that some good can come out of it. A community of interest is certainly a vital principle among men, and there is no reason why the victims of posterior sclerosis should not find in one another's society a bond of fellowship that makes the general burden of their infirmity less grievous to be borne. To be sure, we have known some tabetics who could hardly be classed as "clubbable" men, but a unity of purpose will do much to mitigate the slightest asperities that might arise from social distinctions and belittling idiosyncrasies. It is a curious fact that locomotor ataxia is one of the very few chronic affections that constantly appeal to the imagination of doctors and patients alike as having in reserve some latent tendency toward recovery. Many experts refuse to be discouraged by it; many patients linger on in the front hope and expectancy of cure. Let us trust that these hopes yet will be an active agent in securing such earnestly desired results.

The hope of every book agent in New York is to be admitted to J. Pierpont Morgan's office, in order to show his wares. It is asserted that the more expensive anything is the more easily it can be sold to Mr. Morgan. Some time ago, according to a story that is vouched for by a man who has been in the book business for twenty years, the widow of a well known English artist wrote to Mr. Morgan offering to dispose of all the paintings, sketches, etc., her husband had left her $5,000. No notice was taken of the letter. Six months later the widow gave permission to a book agent to try to dispose of the paintings. He took them to Mr. Morgan and sold them to him for $25,000.

OSTEOPATHY AIDS NATURE.
By C. W. Mayhugh, D. O., Savaush, D. O.
To live natural, to be natural, is the most perfect life. Osteopathy is nature's own method. She accomplishes the interchange of forces, establishes harmony, relieves an accumulation of blood at one portion of the body that is needed at another, but which owing to some fault of the circulatory system, is unable to reach its destination. This may be due to a diseased gland pressing upon some small vessel of the vaso-motor system and "breaking the current." It may be due to abnormal position of a bone affecting the nerve or pressing on the blood vessel itself. Again, it may be due to a contracted muscle shutting off the blood supply through pressure on the blood vessel. Remove such obstructions and the body will act harmoniously; this is health.
In assisting these facts Osteopathy goes one step in advance of anything known to the science of "old school" men. All of the therapeutic methods in vogue today work for a stimulation or an inhibition. None of them or all of them can make one drop of blood, one muscle fiber, or one nerve cell. It must be by the natural processes of the body. Hence no physician can conscientiously hope to do more than aid nature. The drug doctor endeavors to do this by chemicals; the electrician, by electricity; the hydropath, by heat and cold through the medium of water, the osteopath by mechanical regulations of the forces within the body and the removal of obstructions.
Pure blood is the greatest germicide known. There is no one who will dispute it. The osteopath recognizes it and seeks to send healthy blood to a diseased portion of the body. The surgeon does not claim to have cured the affected member, when he has set a broken bone and given instruction to the patient. He has only aided nature, and he does not try to do more.
The homeopath reasons correctly when he says: "Let nature give to a sick man that which will make a well man sick and expect it to make a sick man well!" For many years leading men of the medical world have been looking for some method more natural than the "kill or cure" plan, something that will cure instead of deadening the pain. The pain should not be killed in the majority of cases—it is a blessing in that it cautions us of advancing trouble; and when you do it, you take down the signal placed there to warn you of approaching danger.
Hilton knew of the principles involved in Osteopathy, but it remained for Dr. Still to go into the garden of thought and gather therefrom gems of truth that are to counter upon humanity's lasting benefits. Human happiness will be promoted by the discovery of Osteopathy to such an extent that it may be compared to the launching of the first canoe, the culmination of which is now represented in the transatlantic greyhound. The training of the lion was a greater feat than the training of the horse, but which has been of greater service to humanity? It is also a greater feat to cure appendicitis with the knife than it is to cure it Osteopathically, i. e., by removing the foreign matter from the appendix; but which is the more sensible and less dangerous? It may take more courage in the treatment of diphtheria, to give a deadly poison in just the right proportion so as not to injure the patient, than it does to remove the congestion, establish circulation and allow bacteria to be destroyed by the leucocytes which nature has provided for that purpose, but which treatment is the most natural and safest?
None of our readers may be as skeptical in regard to Osteopathy as President Jefferson was when told of a shower of stones described in Connecticut. He remarked: "It is easier to believe two Yankee professors will lie than it is to believe stones will fall from heaven." And yet today no one doubts the existence of meteors.
Osteopathy is just as true, and yet when Osteopathy says: "Away with drugs, the living body has within it the means whereby to remove pathological conditions if properly aided," those who have always depended on drugs for relief are, believe that if drugs do not cure nothing, else can, are at first amazed at the boldness of the new science and wonder what is wrong with the drug system that people are hunting for something better. Will they stop for one short minute and honestly ask themselves how drugs cure?
I shall not have spent my time in vain if I have convinced my readers that:
Drugs do not cure.
Electricity does not cure.
Hydrotherapy does not cure.
Osteopathy does not cure.
Nature does cure. Therefore, aid her in the most natural manner, and when this has been done all has been done that is possible for man to do.

were found this morning by Diver Patrick. Just as the Evansville packet, J. B. Richardson, pulled out, Diver Patrick came up with the body. The Boh Dudley came along at this juncture and was hailed, and the body placed aboard and brought to the city and turned over to Undertaker Frank Edinger.

The remains of Mrs. Adams and Miss Barnett were taken to Birdsville this morning on the Richardson, and will be buried this afternoon.

The river at the point where the wreck occurred, was and is still filled with drift, and logs of large proportions compose the largest part of the drift. Had the passengers not been caught in the cabin, like in a trap, the majority of those drowned would have been saved by driftwood.

A well known pilot said of the conditions this morning while several river men were discussing the disaster: "The first time I saw the boat was here at the wharf several years ago, soon after she was first run into this city. I said at the time that if a puff of wind should come along she would go over. The boat was top heavy and it did not take glasses to see that. In the first place she was too narrow for her height and for this reason the team was left off. The hull was built for a much smaller boat and the mistake was made in making the cabin so high."

The Broca Hill arrived at the wharf at about 12:15 today with the body of Mrs. Hoggan, the son of Mr. W. A. Hoggan. There is yet another one of the children in the wreck.

Charles Mayden, of Lola, Livingston county, one of those reported dead, is said to be alive, and according to reports was seen in the city this morning. It seems he had gotten off the boat before she was sunk.
